DEAR FRIENDS AND SUPPORTERS

With your help and support, Mile High Early Learning is helping Denver’s most vulnerable children reach their potential and thrive. To achieve this goal, we engage families as champions and advocates for their children, and we provide training that promotes the well-being of our highly effective teacher workforce. We are proud to share three achievements from 2018 that support this work:

• Retaining Teachers & Informing the Field. The Colorado Early Childhood Workforce Survey 2017 examined factors that predict teacher turnover, retention, and well-being and found that the single factor associated with turnover was wages. Teachers reported high rates of burnout and intended to leave their jobs because they felt overwhelmed by children’s challenging behaviors and by the high volume of paperwork stemming from multiple monitoring and reporting requirements. To address these issues, MHEL launched a Workforce Enhancement Initiative focused on impacting the working conditions and well-being of its workforce. We are delivering a set of interventions with teachers at MHEL (starting with a significant increase in teacher salaries implemented in 2018) and will test the effectiveness of these interventions at improving teacher retention and well-being. Our work will inform the state and national policy conversation about early childhood education while increasing early childhood teaching effectiveness, job satisfaction, and children’s social-emotional development right here at MHEL.

• Developing a sustainability plan for supporting Family, Friend and Neighbor (FFN) Caregivers. Babies Ready for College (BRFC) is our signature program for FFN and provides caregivers of young children with vital information about how children’s brains grow and ways to facilitate that growth so that their children will succeed in school. Because the number of children in informal care settings is significantly greater than those enrolled in formal settings, we believe it is important to reach caregivers through BRFC to fulfill our mission. Our research shows that after participating in BRFC, parents and caregivers feel more confident and less stressed, as well as a significant return on investment.

• Ensuring that our teachers are maximizing their skills, knowledge, and practices. MHEL uses the Classroom Assessment Scoring System (CLASS) to measure the quality of instruction by focusing on teacher interactions with children. CLASS observations were completed in the fall and spring with teachers demonstrating growth in each domain. As an example, our teachers’ scores in the domain of Emotional Support were 20% greater than the national average. Our toddler teachers scored a 3.7 in Engaged Learning compared to a 2.6 national average, and a 6.0 in Emotional Support compared to a 4.8 national average.

We look forward to building upon these achievements and to continuing our work in partnership with you to help our children succeed in school.
